

OUR STORY

In the 1950s and 60s, women looked for their beauty supplies in the local five and dime stores. Yes, it's true. They could get their very own beauty products for a dime or two. M.E. Moses and Woolworth's were familiar places in those days, and women everywhere would buy one-of-a-kind beauty products like Dove soap and Pond's cleansing cream.

We have come a long way since then, but one thing remains – women can be their own kind of beautiful. Today, women everywhere are paying for expensive beauty products to stay beautiful. Beauty manufacturers are charging astronomical prices; knowing beauty is worth the price.

My name is Beth Withers Banning, and I have been a beauty consultant for almost two decades. Dimestorebeauty.com was created by my team and me to deliver beauty to every woman at an economical price. I decided every woman has the right to stay beautiful within her own budget.

On Dimestorebeauty.com, you will find bargain prices for beauty products that will produce the same results as those on the market running hundreds of dollars. My team has researched the ins and outs of the beauty industry and found comparable products to those charging outlandish prices. You will not be able to find a better price anywhere for your beauty products, and if you do, contact me, and I will meet or beat that price.
